FINGERPRINTS OF ROGERS WANTED BY STATE AUTHORITIES

Welter of Conflicting Stories Develops Among The Witnesses

(By International News Service)

WEST CHESTER, Sept. 13.—The shadow of a murder charge hung ominously over Henry Huddleston Rogers, Jr., black sheep son of the late multi-millionaire Standard Oil king, as authorities investigating the mysterious shooting of beautiful Evelyn Hoey, 25, Broadway singing star, today demanded his fingerprints for comparison with those left on the death pistol. A bitter fight was indicated. The New York playboy's growing battery of lawyers have opposed his fingerprinting and it was reported Chester county authorities would demand a Court order to attain their ends.

Booked on suspicion of murder, Rogers and his friend, William J. Kelly, 25, a newsreel cameraman of Union City, N. J., were spending their second day in the county jail here. The blonde contralto whose crooning made her the darling of Broadway, was shot to death in Rogers' bedroom at Indian Run Farm, his country manor, near Downingtown. Since the hour of the shooting—10 p. m., Wednesday, a welter of conflicting stories has developed among witnesses. These developments and particularly the testimony of one person, which allegedly completely refutes the story of Rogers' principal alibi witness, point to but one thing in the opinion of Chief of County Detectives Francis Grubb—murder. Ascerting he has found new evidence, Grubb, a bulldog type of sleuth, clung to his earlier declaration of "we will very likely charge somebody with murder." District Attorney W. A. Park continued, however, to lean to the suicide theory, although he admitted there was not the slightest sign of a motive for self-destruction.

Friends and relatives of both the victim and Rogers were coming here, while officials struggled with pieces of the baffling death puzzle.

200,000 View Long's Body

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 13.—Even in death the tempestuous, cyclonic atmosphere under which Huey Long, Louisiana's political phenomena, clung to him like a shroud and followed him to his grave. For 26 hours the bullet-punctured body lay in state in the rotunda of the 32 story, $5,000,000 capitol he erected as a monument to his regime, while more than 200,000 persons trooped here from all over the state and stood in packed masses under a broiling sun for hours, and clawed and fought for a last glimpse of the statesman. Many dropped from sunstroke and many thousands were denied a final brief look at the tuxedo-draped figure when the doors of the capitol clanged shut at 4.30 p. m. and brief funeral and burial services began. And in the end, completely out of hand, the jam of near hysterical humanity broke through police lines and trampling hundreds of floral offerings, surged to the edge of the grave and became a maddened mob of souvenir seekers, tearing floral offerings and snatching every bloom at hand. When the mob finally dispersed at twilight, the acres of parkway that surrounded the capitol building had the appearance of the grounds at a county fair, littered with thousands of pieces of tattered paper and crushed lunch boxes.

SHOULD VOTE "NO"

Since increasing the public debt of the state was made the main issue by those who are sponsoring a constitutional convention, voters interested in lower taxes should vote NO to the question, "Shall a Constitutional Convention be called?"

For Republican Nomination
CLERK QUARTER SESSIONS
Bucks County

Daniel R. Hendricks, of Solebury, a popular contender for the Primary nomination as Clerk of the Quarter Sessions Court on the Republican ticket, was born in Solebury Township on Hendricks Island. He received his education in the public schools in Jersey City where he also learned the trade of printer. He returned to Solebury in 1895, was married and became a farmer.

For many years he has been enthusiastically active in the civil and political life of his community. He was elected Tax Collector of Solebury Township in 1922 and served with an enviable record in that office until 1934. He presents to the people that high type of candidity which undoubtedly will bring him the active support of voters who look for efficiency and real ability in public servants.

Mr. Hendricks has the endorsement of the Republican Harmony Primary Campaign Committee.

LAVAL SAYS FRANCE WILL SUPPORT LEAGUE

Premier Throws Weight of His Country on Side of Great Britain

BUT WANTS FRIENDSHIP

GENEVA, Sept. 13.—Addressing the League of Nations assembly on the Italo-Ethiopian crisis, Premier Pierre Laval of France issued a warning to day France will support the League of Nations to the limit for a peaceful settlement of the dispute and favors Britain's plea for collective action against acts of aggression. In his long-awaited declaration of France's policy, upon which many diplomats believed the fate of the League depended, Laval threw the weight of France on the side of Great Britain. He received an ovation when he stated: "In such a grave hour, when everyone must assume responsibilities, I wish to say France is faithful to the covenant of the League. We put our hope in co-operation of peoples for our own work of peace."

At the same time, however, Laval assured Italy of France's urgent desire to maintain her friendship and to help her in every possible way to seek an outlet for expansion. Regarding collective security he continued, "all our agreements have passed through Geneva. Any attacker of the League would be an attacker of our security."

Laval unstintingly praised the recent speech of the British Foreign Minister, Sir Samuel Hoare who warned Britain wanted collective action against all unprovoked acts of aggression. Laval said, "Nobody welcomed the speech more than France, it marks a day in the history of the League. I rejoice with my country in collaborating with Britain in safeguarding the peace of Europe."

TOUR OF NEW YORK

of Boston

Eyes glowing from thousands of things and scenes that were observed during the tour and many memories of new and interesting experiences, were the pleasure of the returning Bucks County Jamboree Scouts, Scouts, and Leaders. Although it did not equal, from a Scouting status, the values that would have been secured from the National Jamboree that was cancelled at Washington, nevertheless, the educational value of the trip was in excess of what would have been received by being at Washington. Fortunately nobody was injured or seriously sick.

In addition to the planned places to visit, the members of the Tour had the pleasure of meeting Dr. James E. West, the Chief Scout Executive of the Boy Scouts of America, during a visit.

As usual, opening day, Tuesday, will be Children's Day, when all school children will be admitted free. Practically every school in Bucks County will observe at least a half holiday and many schools will not have a session that day. Of particular interest to the young folks will be the Hobby Show which will again be displayed under the grandstand with the greatly enlarged Boy Scout Exhibit. Details of the Hobby Show will be furnished the children through their teachers who will be supplied with entry blanks.

Under the direction of Miss Rhadenda Armstrong there will be several interesting classes in which the Four H Club Girls will compete. This is in addition to the many other educational features held during the week.

Merchants who are again co-operating with the Fair Association now have on sale the Special Four for $1.00 tickets, good for four admissions of any kind, any day or night. The sale of these half price advance tickets positively closes Saturday night, September 21st.

The Doylestown Fair has always been known as a "Farmer's Fair" and is noted for its fine agricultural and domestic exhibits. In an effort to surpass the exhibits of former years the Department Heads are urging that as many persons as possible exhibit this year.

Entries to compete for the cash premiums in the Exhibition Department are pouring in and will continue to do so until entries close Tuesday, September 17th, at six p. m. Premium Lists and entry blanks may be secured from the Secretary, J. Allen Gady, 28 West State street, Doylestown, Pa.

September Grand Jury Ignores Six Bills

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 13.—The Grand Jury of the September term of criminal court of Bucks county was submitted by R. Barclay Moon, foreman, of Morrisville, and Roy Y. Greissner, secretary, of Quakertown.

Aside from the routine of hearing testimony, the Grand Jury members approved the construction of a new bridge to be County Bridge No. 361 over Tincum Creek in Tincum township, and approved plans submitted to them. The jury also favored the closing and abandoning of county bridge No. 163 over Pidcock Creek in Solebury township.

"Entirely satisfactory condition found at the Bucks County Home," was the way the Grand Jury report described a visit to that institution. The jury especially commended the Steward of the County Home, Abram L. Kriebel for his splendid management of the farm and the institution as a whole.

The Grand Jury visited the County Prison and found that it was well managed and that prisoners received good care. They commended Sheriff Gwinner on the successful efforts he has made to keep the occupants in good health.

"In pleasant weather the men are given an opportunity to work in the yard," the report described. "We feel that it would be beneficial to the occupants, and indirectly to the Commonwealth, if, when the occupants are unable to be outside, they had more directed activity than simply walking in the corridor."

"We therefore recommend that some effort be made to give the inmates something to do and think about in the winter and in inclement weather, when the occupants cannot be outdoors. We suggest the weaving of rugs, with stress on the making of designs, possibly bead work too."

The Grand Jury also found the Administration Building very satisfactory, and the Court House row offices well managed and the employees courteous and ready to assist at any time. The Court too, and the District Attorney and his assistant, were thanked in the report.

During the time the Grand Jury was in session, the members had 37 bills of indictment laid before them, 30 of which were found to be true bills.

MAN LEAPS IN PATH OF EXPRESS TRAIN NEAR PARKLAND

Victim Identified As Charles
Davidson, 56, of Wycombe

WORKED ON A FARM

Deceased Left Note at Home of His Former Employer

LANGHORNE, Sept. 13.—Committing suicide by leaping in front of a train at Parkland, a man identified as Charles Davidson, 56, farm hand, ended his life yesterday afternoon.

Davidson is said to have dashed from a woods and thrown himself in front of a westbound Reading Company express train. The body was carried about 800 feet by the locomotive and left considerably mangled alongside the track.

The train was brought to a stop and a short time later proceeded on its way.

Harry Smith, of Parkland, who was about to cross the tracks in the opposite direction, told authorities that the man approached the railroad, tossed his cap aside and leaped in front of the locomotive. The Bucks County Rescue Squad at Parkland was notified and members in turn reported the case to the Oxford Valley Highway Patrol.

Deputy Coroner W. Furman Young, of Bristol, had the body removed to the morgue of R. L. Horner at Langhorne.

The body was later identified by B. F. Mullins, of Wycombe, through a cap and watch owned by the victim. Mullins, who drove to the morgue with his wife, said that Davidson had been employed at his farm for about eight years. The first of the present month he was engaged to work about the Hibbs Buckman estate at Langhorne.

That Davidson had planned suicide was evidenced in a note he left at the Mullins home in which he bid the family good-bye and asked forgiveness for his deed. The note was discovered in the Mullins home after the man's death had become known.

Davidson, a widower, was born in Philadelphia. He has a niece, Mrs. J. M. Clute, of 5825 Fernwood avenue, West Philadelphia. Relatives will take charge of the body.

ITALY, IMPORTER

Of the more important countries of Europe, few are so susceptible as Italy to the pressure of an economic boycott. Particularly is that country dependent on imports for the materials most necessary for maintenance during a period of warfare.

Regularly Italy's imports exceed exports in such essential commodities as live animals, meat, animal and vegetable oils, eggs, sugar, cotton, wool, iron and steel, copper, heavy machinery, mineral oils, medicines and pharmaceutical products. Of these, the materials counted most necessary for preparation of means of modern warfare, such as iron and steel, copper, oil, coal, animal foodstuffs and oils. Italy imports heavily.

Of the 10 leading countries with which the principal relations of Italy are maintained, the United States, Great Britain, Germany, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Austria sell more than they buy in their commerce with Italy.

These facts, however, by no means prove that Italy can not carry out a purpose to make war on Ethiopia without the consent of the nations named. The present complications have not developed overnight, and Mussolini doubtless has undertaken to have on hand necessary supplies measured by the length of time he thinks will be required to get what he wants in Ethiopia.

SAFE DAIRY HERDS

The gigantic task of ridding the dairy herds of the United States of tuberculosis has progressed past the half-way point. The statement was made recently by the United States department of agriculture in announcing that Wyoming has been placed on the "modified accredited" list.

Wyoming is the eighth western state to be accorded this status. Most of the testing in that state was of range cattle.

Calling the Wyoming completion the passing of the half-way point is a little inaccurate as an indication of the work done and that remaining to be accomplished. Officials say that progress now will be rapid. The facilities of the government are at their best because of allotments of emergency funds. Besides, areas most seriously infected have been cleaned up and a fine spirit of co-operation exists because the great benefits derived are becoming generally apparent.

A scientist says a candle attracts moths by its wave lengths. And still you wouldn't think a modern bathing suit would have any wave lengths to speak of.

Moscow understood that Washington would play ball—and here it is, the first crack out of the box, beefing about a few broken solemn pledges.

While not up on the details of the government's new control of the potato, we can say that mashing them keeps them from falling off the knife.

Perhaps the African crisis would find more soldiers of fortune enlisting if there were anything in Ethiopia corresponding to the old Paris sector.

When you read the remedies offered to save the country, you can't help wondering how people stayed solvent as long as they did.

Holding a constitutional convention would entail a huge expense on the taxpayers. This expense would be in addition to the new and heavy tax burdens to which the convention would open the way for imposition in the future. Vote "No" on holding of a Constitutional Convention.

JOHN J. SWEENEY M. D.

FOR REPUBLICAN NOMINATION

CORONER OF BUCKS COUNTY

John J. Sweeney, M. D., candidate for the Republican nomination for the important office of Coroner of Bucks County, graduated from the Hahnemann Medical College of Philadelphia in the Class of 1911. He has been practicing his profession of Doctor of Medicine since that time in Doylestown, with the exception of two years spent in service overseas during the World War in the Medical Corps. He has been Coroner of Bucks county for 10 years and during that time has not only proven his ability to serve in such an office but he has conducted it in its entirety to the satisfaction of the Republican party.

"CAST INTO EDEN"

—BY—
HENRY C. ROWLAND

CHAPTER XXI

The sinister mysterious personality of the absent proprietor seemed now the most disturbing menace of all.

But he said to himself: "The man can't be so bad as all that, Linda. Your complete scientist doesn't bother about much but his science. He probably has a boat and cruises along the shore collecting, and merely uses this place to rest and write from time to time."

"All the same we must get away. Our skill has probably been found with the hole in it and reported, and we're thought to have been drowned and they've given us up. The Duono may have gone off not to return for a long time. Perhaps he's not a naturalist at all or any other scientist, but some sort of political or criminal refugee who has gone back to his country and been colored and shot or thrown in prison, or something."

Here was a fresh idea. "All right," Jerome agreed. "Tomorrow we'll make a final thorough search for tools and if we can't find what we need I'll crash the chests."

Jerome was the first to awaken as soon as it grew light. He did not go down to the beach as usual but plunged into the pool, then went to the kitchen-storehouse to make some coffee.

This building was about ten by twenty feet, built like the house of stone walls with a palm-thatch roof. The floor was of cement and as there was no opening it had never occurred to Jerome that there might be a cellar beneath. Neither was there anything on the outside of the building to indicate a cellar entrance.

The store room back of the kitchen was fairly well filled with crates and boxes and barrels of different supplies from which the castaways had been helping themselves. The coffee in a glass jar had nearly run out so Jerome went into the store room where there was an unopened sack of the beans in one corner. He hauled this out to get at it more easily and as he did so the corner of a trapdoor came in sight. A box of tinned goods hid the rest of it.

Feeling like a fool for having overlooked this simple answer to their problem, Jerome cleared the trap and opened it to disclose a flight of ladder steps. He struck a match and went down. Not only was the whole building cellared but the underground chamber was lighted and ventilated by slits of about an inch between the masonry blocks of the foundation. These apertures had been screened from observation by the low bushes that grew close up to the building.

With a wary eye for snakes and insects Jerome took stock of what the place contained. There was a tin of charcoal in one corner and next it a row of small casks of which the contents filled the cellar with the odor of wine and spirits. Some solid shelves held an array of naturalists' specimen jars, many of which were filled. A long bin held yams, and there was a cement wall full of some vegetable product, breadfruit Jerome thought. On another shelf were some hard cheeses.

From above overhead there hung coils of rope, wire of different sizes, and such articles of hardware as might be found in a marine junkshop. There was a short bench with a heavy iron and a wooden vice. There were kegs of galvanized nails and spikes and an abundance of tools of different sorts, gardening ones with axes, hatchets, scythes and sickles. Also there was a full equipment of kitchen and house china and pottery and implements.

Jerome felt more than ever like a fool. No textiles of any sort were with all this supply of things that they had needed. Clothes, bedding, and the like, would probably be in the half dozen big ornate chests.

The embarrassment of riches staggered him. He had always been a natural craftsman and he saw at once that a fairly good ship's carpenter had here everything needed . . . but the material itself . . . with which to build a boat. He thought of the chicken houses that were frame structures, and the wood thickly painted and in good condition. Such a workman as himself could knock together in a few days a skiff or scow that should ferry them safely to the mainland. If he had only thought of the possibility of a cellar or even made a thorough search of the premises the day of their arrival they should by this time be ready to shove off.

Thoroughly disgusted with him-

"And I . . . I've got to see it rot before my eyes . . . without ever knowing what it's like?"

"It may rot, but not before your eyes. You keep out of that plantation. Next time you might not get off so easily."

"The gorillas never come round until the sun is high."

"Don't bank on that," Papa Gorilla and the doc had said goodby and gone when we came on the tree. It didn't take long for him to know that we were trespassing. Animal intuition."

A little shiver played over Linda. "We'll forget the fruit, if that's the way you feel about it."

"That's the way you ought to feel about it," Jerome said hotly. "We take the man's food and before leaving we shall have to force the chests self as a resourceful castaway protector for a woman, Jerome went back to the house. A splashing in the pool and her decorative leather surplice thrown over a bush announced Linda at her morning bath. "What's up now?" she called. "You look peeved."

After breakfast, Jerome got to work on his boat.

Jerome described his find. Linda laughed. "We'll be finding the keys to the chests tied to their handles next, and scented bed-sheets and the latest tropic sporting clothes inside."

"We'd better leave the chests alone until we get our sampan built and a mast and matting sail in her."

"Yes, and stores and all of the forbidden fruit that's ripe . . ."

"That," he said emphatically, "remains taboo. We'll have done looting enough to get us the flaming sword."

"But what if it drops on the ground?"

"It's not going to," Jerome said positively. "The stem is tough and heavy and will ripen and rot on the tree, like cherries or bananas."

and get some clothes, and I've got to demolish his henery to get planks to build a boat. The least we can do is to obey his only written verboten to the letter."

"As you will," she interrupted. "Throw me my best dress. I want to look into that cellar."

After breakfast Jerome got to work on his boat. He was pleased to find that the long hen-house was built of mahogany, which is everywhere the wood par excellence for small boats and was, no doubt, in that region the cheapest. Boat planking of mahogany can be laid as closely as contact permits without danger of swelling and warping, and this saves necessity of caulking.

He planned to build a down-east fisherman's dory, about fourteen feet long. To avoid sabotage the gorilla family he decided to use the big room of the house for his shop. When finished the boat would not be too heavy for Linda and himself to drag down over the bed of the brook to the beach.

Scouts From Bucks County Learn Much During Tour

out all of the points of interest from the 86th floor.

Each day every member of the Tour was given a postal card of the important spots of interest. Many days two or three cards were given so that the folks back home would know where they were and have an idea of what they were seeing. The hardiness and ability of the Scouts to take care of themselves was shown by the sleeping out of doors in the very cold New England Mountains. Every precaution was taken for their health, and the care shown by the administration resulted in everybody coming back healthier than when they left. The total net gain of 114 pounds indicated the wisdom of eating in restaurants on the road, rather than attempting to cook on a short time allowance.

Appreciation was expressed to Mrs. Cordelia Livermore for her helpfulness in assisting to make the Tour a success by giving her a traveling hat box, and the jovial bus driver, Jack Flynn, was given a gentleman's toilet case. The Scouts wanted to remember each of the leaders, starting with Scout Executive William F. Livermore, Scoutmaster Clarence Souder, William Carlin, William Palmer, and Fred Hellberg, with a gift, but the leaders stopped such a plan by saying that if each boy had become a better Scout by having been with them during the Tour, it was sufficient compensation for them.

The careful checking of the Scouts by Dr. Reading Rufe of Chalfont and Doylestown had much to do with the success of the Tour. Dr. Rufe contributed his services, and made comment relative to the health of each member of the party, and it was carefully followed out by Tour Medical Director Fred Hellberg.

After checking out on weight, personal equipment, and health at the Burpee Playground, the Scouts formed a circle and farewell remarks were expressed by all of the Leaders, concluded by the singing of Taps.

ONCE UPON A TIME
at GRAND THEATRE TONIGHT

DANGER AHEAD!

In the Primary that will be held throughout Pennsylvania on Tuesday, September 17th, the most costly Administration in the history of this Commonwealth, for its own partisan, political advantage, will ask the people of this State to abandon their present Constitution in favor of one which would radically change the form of government in Pennsylvania.

The issue will be put squarely up to every voter in the form of a question upon a special ballot. You will be asked to vote YES or NO to a Constitutional Convention. Reduced to its simplest terms, the question is whether—

- (1) We shall retain our present Constitution, which for more than 60 years has kept this State out of debt and assured the people of Pennsylvania the widest latitude of self-government, with the largest degree of home rule—the American System; or
- (2) We shall substitute the kind of a Constitution demanded by this Administration, which would divest the people of Pennsylvania of many important rights now reserved to them, and perpetuate the present Administration in office, with unlimited authority to borrow upon the public credit, raise taxes, destroy home rule, and concentrate all powers in the Governor and a single-branch Legislature under his control.

The Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, the State Grange, the State Chamber of Commerce, numerous patriotic and fraternal organizations, and many thousands of individuals, are opposing the proposed Convention and new Constitution, for the following among many reasons:

1. The announced purpose is to bring the Constitution of Pennsylvania into line with the New Deal, whose costly experiments have piled up an unprecedented public debt, retarded recovery and are in conflict with the Constitution of the United States and the American form of government.
2. To further centralize all power and authority in Harrisburg, it is proposed to abolish the State Senate (which slashed more than 78 millions from the Governor's program for 203 millions of new taxes) and create a single legislative body subservient to the Executive.
3. Under the plan for consolidating local political units, Home Rule, as now carried out through local governments, administered by local officers, responsible only to the people, largely would disappear from Pennsylvania.
4. The Legislature would have power to abolish the Grand Jury, allow criminal indictments merely upon information, and provide for convictions upon less than a unanimous verdict by a jury.
5. The Legislature would have power to bring any branch of business or industry under complete State regulation; to go into the housing business; to charter and subsidize corporations to compete with private enterprise in housing projects; to consolidate and supervise local relief and charitable agencies; and to set up unemployment relief as a permanent dole in Pennsylvania.
6. A Governor, stumping the State as the chief exponent of a new Constitution, whose outstanding features would be the right of the Governor to succeed himself, and the removal of all limit on borrowing power, tells the story of this proposed revision. The assertion that the present Constitutional limit on borrowing requires a new Constitution is utterly without basis, first, because the Supreme Court has ruled that millions may be borrowed for any emergency upon a note issue against anticipated revenue, once the Legislature has provided for that revenue; second, because there is no provision in the present Constitution which cannot be changed by an amendment approved by the people of Pennsylvania.
7. Our Constitution is the basis of our whole social, political and economic structure, and every dictate of wisdom warns against completely rewriting it in any period of economic unrest and political instability such as exists at the present time. And especially is that true when the chief advocates of this revision would provide for waste and extravagance without limit, at a time when every need cries out for reducing the costs of government and keeping new taxes to a minimum.
8. While proponents of a new Constitution have baited their hook with "Social Security," exactly the same results can be obtained by an amendment of the existing Constitution; but we believe that the kind of social security every self-respecting Pennsylvanian wants is that which is to be had from industrial recovery resulting from the removal of governmental interference with business, thus providing good jobs at good wages, and the ability of each to provide for self and family, free of Federal, State or local charity.

This dangerous proposal is being advocated by the self-interested, free-spending, tax-raising Administration at Harrisburg as a means of continuing itself in office, with free access to the public credit.

Social security does not lie within the province of a constitutional convention, but rather within the homes of our people. FIFTEEN LOCAL BOYS ANXIOUS TO FIGHT

Fifteen Bristol boys signified their intentions of wishing to fight in the amateur boxing show to be conducted in the St. Ann's Arena, Monday night, by signing the Middle Atlantic Amateur Athletic Union application slips last night. Match-maker, Sammy Moffo, announced that ten will be picked to represent the borough in the bouts.

The youths who have signed are: Mike Quici, John Raccagno, Joe Roe, Louie Pizzullo, Harry Davis, Francis Wilson, Albert Paris, Donato Sciarra, Edmund Duran, Hugh Downs, Sammy Ross, James Brushia, Paul Johnson, Joseph Dougherty, and Sammy Blacchi. Three others from Holmesburg also wish to fight under the colors of the St. Ann's organization. They are: Joseph Beatrice, Joseph Curran and Arthur DePalma.

Wilson, Joe Roe, Ross, Pizzullo, Downs, and the three Holmesburg boys have not made their debut as yet. It is the hope of Sammy Moffo to have these boys carded soon.

Trainers Ray Pico, Micky Gordon, and Johnny Strafe, are putting the gloves through training paces every night starting at seven o'clock. All fighters must report and show their wares before they will be allowed to don the mitts.

BACHARACH GIANTS TO PLAY SEEDMEN

The attraction on Leedom's field tomorrow afternoon will be the Bacharach Giants. The Philadelphia club will meet the D. Landreth Seed Company baseball nine, a team which has captured over 20 victories in a campaign which did not get under way until the middle of June.

The Landrethmen's winning streak was broken last Saturday as they were beaten by the Philadelphia Eagles, 7-5, in ten innings. The seedmen will seek revenge and intend to take it out on the Giants.

"Eddie" Sullivan or Turner Ashby will toe the peak for the seed-growers. Both Sullivan and Ashby have won their last two starts on the mound. If Manager Dave Landreth thinks that a south-paw is needed to subdue the Philadelphians, Sullivan will get the nod, otherwise Ashby takes the hill.

The remainder of the lineup will be intact. Sid Purcell will be behind the plate; Bruce on first; Rockhill, short; Gotwald, third; Barrett, left; Hines, center; and Snyder, right.

A large crowd is expected to be on hand when the first pitch is tossed at 3:15 p. m.

YARDLEY

Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Albaugh and son Henry returned home Friday after spending some time as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gilmore.

TO DECIDE CHAMPIONSHIP IN PLAY-OFF GAME SAT.

The long-awaited play-off game to decide the championship of the Lower Bucks County League will take place tomorrow afternoon on the Edgely diamond. The opposing clubs are the Edgely Braves and the Hulmeville A. club. Both clubs have won eleven and lost three during the second half season.

The game was arranged by mutual agreement of the managers of the clubs, Fred Hibbs and Howard Black. Hulmeville has an open date in its play-off series with Dolington for the Delaware River League championship, playing Sunday instead of tomorrow at Dolington.

Manager Fred Hibbs will send his ace, "Jake" Prant to the hill against the Blackmen. A victory for the Edgelyites will mean that a five game series must be played between the two clubs to decide the league championship as Hulmeville is the first half champion. Howard Black intends to use "Pete" Devlin against the Braves.

Hibbs will have a patched-up lineup as several of his players are missing. "Henny" Morrell is unavailable so it is most likely that Leo Hibbs will do the receiving. Hibbs will cover first with Hill on second and Benny Prant short. Malmesbury may or may not put in an appearance as he is away at school. Frankovic and Wright are certain to play the outfield with the other post being occupied by Reading.

Hulmeville will have its same lineup. Afterbach will catch; Leigh, 1b; Allison, 2b; Carlen, ss; Comly, 3b; Pfaffenrath, lf; Watson, cf; and either Bilger or Hemp, rf.

Game will begin at 3 o'clock sharp.

Ringside Reflections

By T. M. Juno

Charlie Daggert is the fighting name of the gentleman who refereed the last bouts. His correct name is Jack McGarrigle. He handled the bouts in the best way possible and was kept busy swinging his arm in the air and down again as the fighters kept bouncing to the floor. His count could be heard by everyone in the arena.

Although no Bristol boys are entered in the Golden Glove Tournament in Philadelphia, the boxing game has been stirred to such a pitch that on Wednesday morning, local fans were glancing at the newspapers to see which boys who fought here were victors. The following won their bouts: Harry DeFazio, John Ferrara, Harry Graig, Carlos Williams, Harry Graber, Francis Viscuse, Clarence Jenkins, and Roosevelt Rowe.

Jenkins won his bout in the Golden Gloves but met a tough opponent in the Bristol youth, Vitche Brushia. It was Brushia's first appearance in a ring and the localite deserves plenty of credit.

Timekeeper Tommy Hanlon was having quite some time with the bell. The round-sounder had recently been painted, and every time Hanlon would send the hammer against the paint on rust, bits would fly up and strike him in the eye.

Referee Daggert was almost hit by hay-maker from the hand of Vince

Della. Della swung as the bell ended the first round just as Daggert was in the act of separating the two batters. Della's swing just missed Daggert's head.

Harry Graber, of the East Side Club, can certainly play the ropes. Several times in his visits here, Graber would lean back far with the ropes and then swing in such a manner as to catch his opponent off guard.

Both Vince Della and Tommy Murphy had swollen eyes at the end of their bout. Murphy was given the decision as the result of the knock-down he scored in the final session.

Russell Curry, East Side, is the best jabber to be exhibited here. Once his left began to work it was a volley of five or six straight jabs in succession. Many fans cannot figure how Al Paris was given the decision over the Quaker City boy. It was Paris' third straight victory.

The fight fans will be glad to know that Mike Quici and Phillip Foster have been re-matched for Monday night. Let's hope the boys will put up another thrilling set-to.

The Third Ward Club is again swinging into the picture and it looks as if they finally will have a winner. Jole Roe and Hughie Downs will wear the colors of the Pickers and should bring the bacon home to the downtown boys who unfortunately haven't chalked up a win as yet.

Donato Sciarra, the boot-black, will again don the tights Monday night. He was introduced from the ring during the bouts and received a great hand. Francis Wilson's fight was called off because his opponent failed to put in an appearance and no other heavy-weight was available.

In order to arrange an amateur show, "Sammy" Moffo, match-maker, must get in touch with the Boxing Commission at all times, and personally must make two appearances at the Philadelphia office twice a week.

A classified ad will sell that piece of furniture that is no longer needed.
